Coblenz, Centre of American Army of Occupation

COBLENZ, WHERE A BRIDGEHEAD IS TO BE FORMED AND HELD BY THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, IS AT THE JUNCTION OF THE RHINE AND THE MOSELLE, AND IS ONE OF THE MOST STRONGLY FORTIFIED TOWNS IN GERMANY.

(© Brown Bros.)

THE CASTLES OF THE RHINE HAVE LONG BEEN FAMOUS IN SONG AND STORY, AND FEW OF THEM HAVE MORE CLAIMS TO THE TOURIST'S ATTENTION THAN THIS CASTLE OF SCHOENBERG, LOCATED IN A COMMANDING POSITION ON THE RHINE AT OBERWESSEL, NINETEEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF COBLENZ.

(© Brown Bros.)

Coblenz, the capital of Rhenish Prussia, has an importance of its own as the seat of an extensive domestic commerce in wine, grain, oils, and iron. It is located at the junction of the Rhine and the Moselle, and has surroundings of great natural beauty. During the war it has been the scene of numerous reprisal raids by British airmen. It is defended by the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, one of the most formidable in Germany. This is located directly opposite Coblenz, and is capable of holding a garrison of 100,000 men. It has immense cisterns which carry a three years' supply of water, and its magazines can hold enough provisions to last 8,000 men for ten years. It is strengthened by all the arts known to the warfare of today. Pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace, Coblenz is to be held by an American army under the command of Major Gen. Dickman. The vanguard of that army entered Coblenz Dec. 8, 1918.

Scenes of Enchanting Beauty on the River Rhine Near

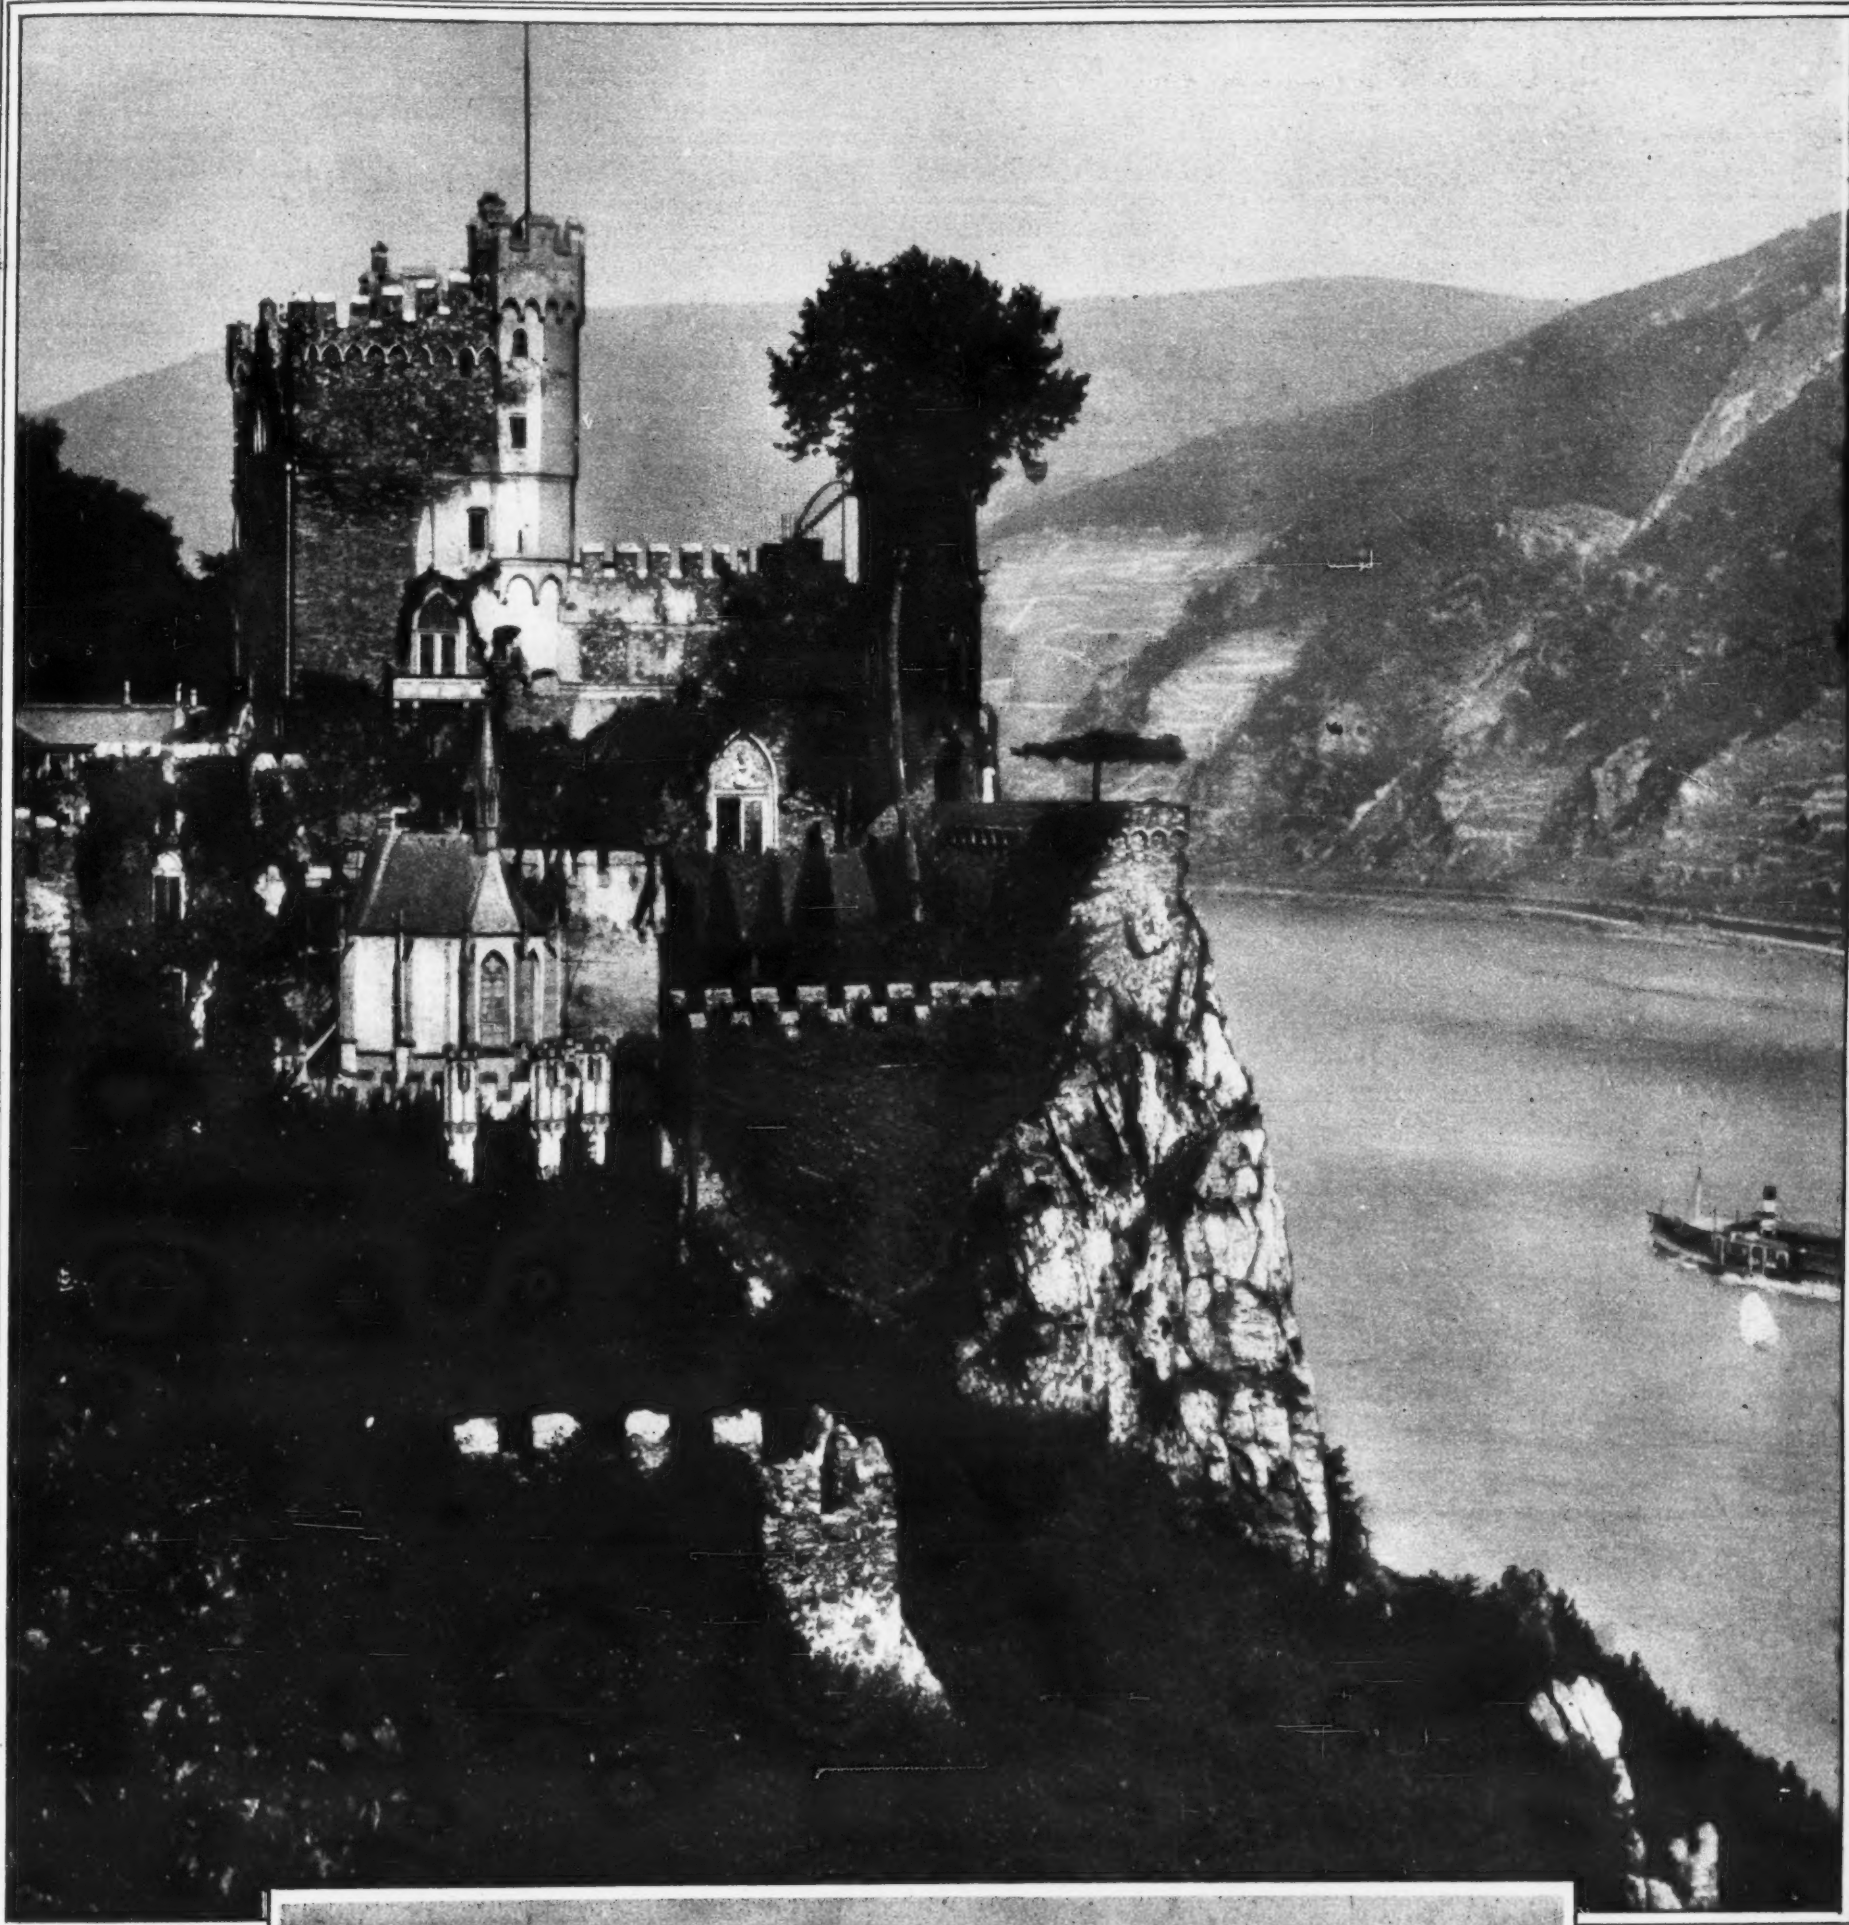

(ABOVE) THE CASTLE OF STOLZENFELS IS LOCATED JUST SOUTH OF COBLENZ WHERE THE MOSELLE AFTER ITS JOURNEY OF 328 MILES POURS ITS WATERS INTO THE RHINE. IT WAS BUILT BY ARNOLD VON ISENBERG, ARCHBISHOP OF TREVES, IN 1250. LATER IT PASSED INTO POSSESSION OF THE GERMAN EMPEROR WILHELM II., AND WAS OFTEN OCCUPIED BY HIM PREVIOUS TO HIS ABDICATION.
(© Brown Bros.)

(AT LEFT) COBLENZ IS ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CITIES OF GERMANY. THIS IS DUE LARGELY TO ITS FORTUNATE LOCATION AT THE JUNCTION OF THE RHINE AND THE MOSELLE. WHERE THE RIVERS MEET, A BROAD AND CHARMING ESPLANADE BEARS AN IMPOSING MONUMENT ERECTED TO WILHELM I., WHO WAS CROWNED GERMAN EMPEROR AT VERSAILLES, FRANCE, 1871.

Coblenz, Which Will Be Occupied by American Army

(ABOVE) A SPLENDID EXAMPLE OF MEDIAEVAL ARCHITECTURE IS AFFORDED BY THIS CASTLE NEAR LORCH, ABOUT 31 MILES SOUTH OF COBLENZ ON THE RHINE. THE RIVER SHORE AT THIS POINT RISES IN PRECIPITOUS CLIFFS OF ALMOST SAVAGE GRANDEUR, AND AT THE HIGHEST POINT THE CASTLE STANDS, COMMANDING A GLORIOUS VIEW OF THE RIVER FOR MANY MILES IN EITHER DIRECTION.

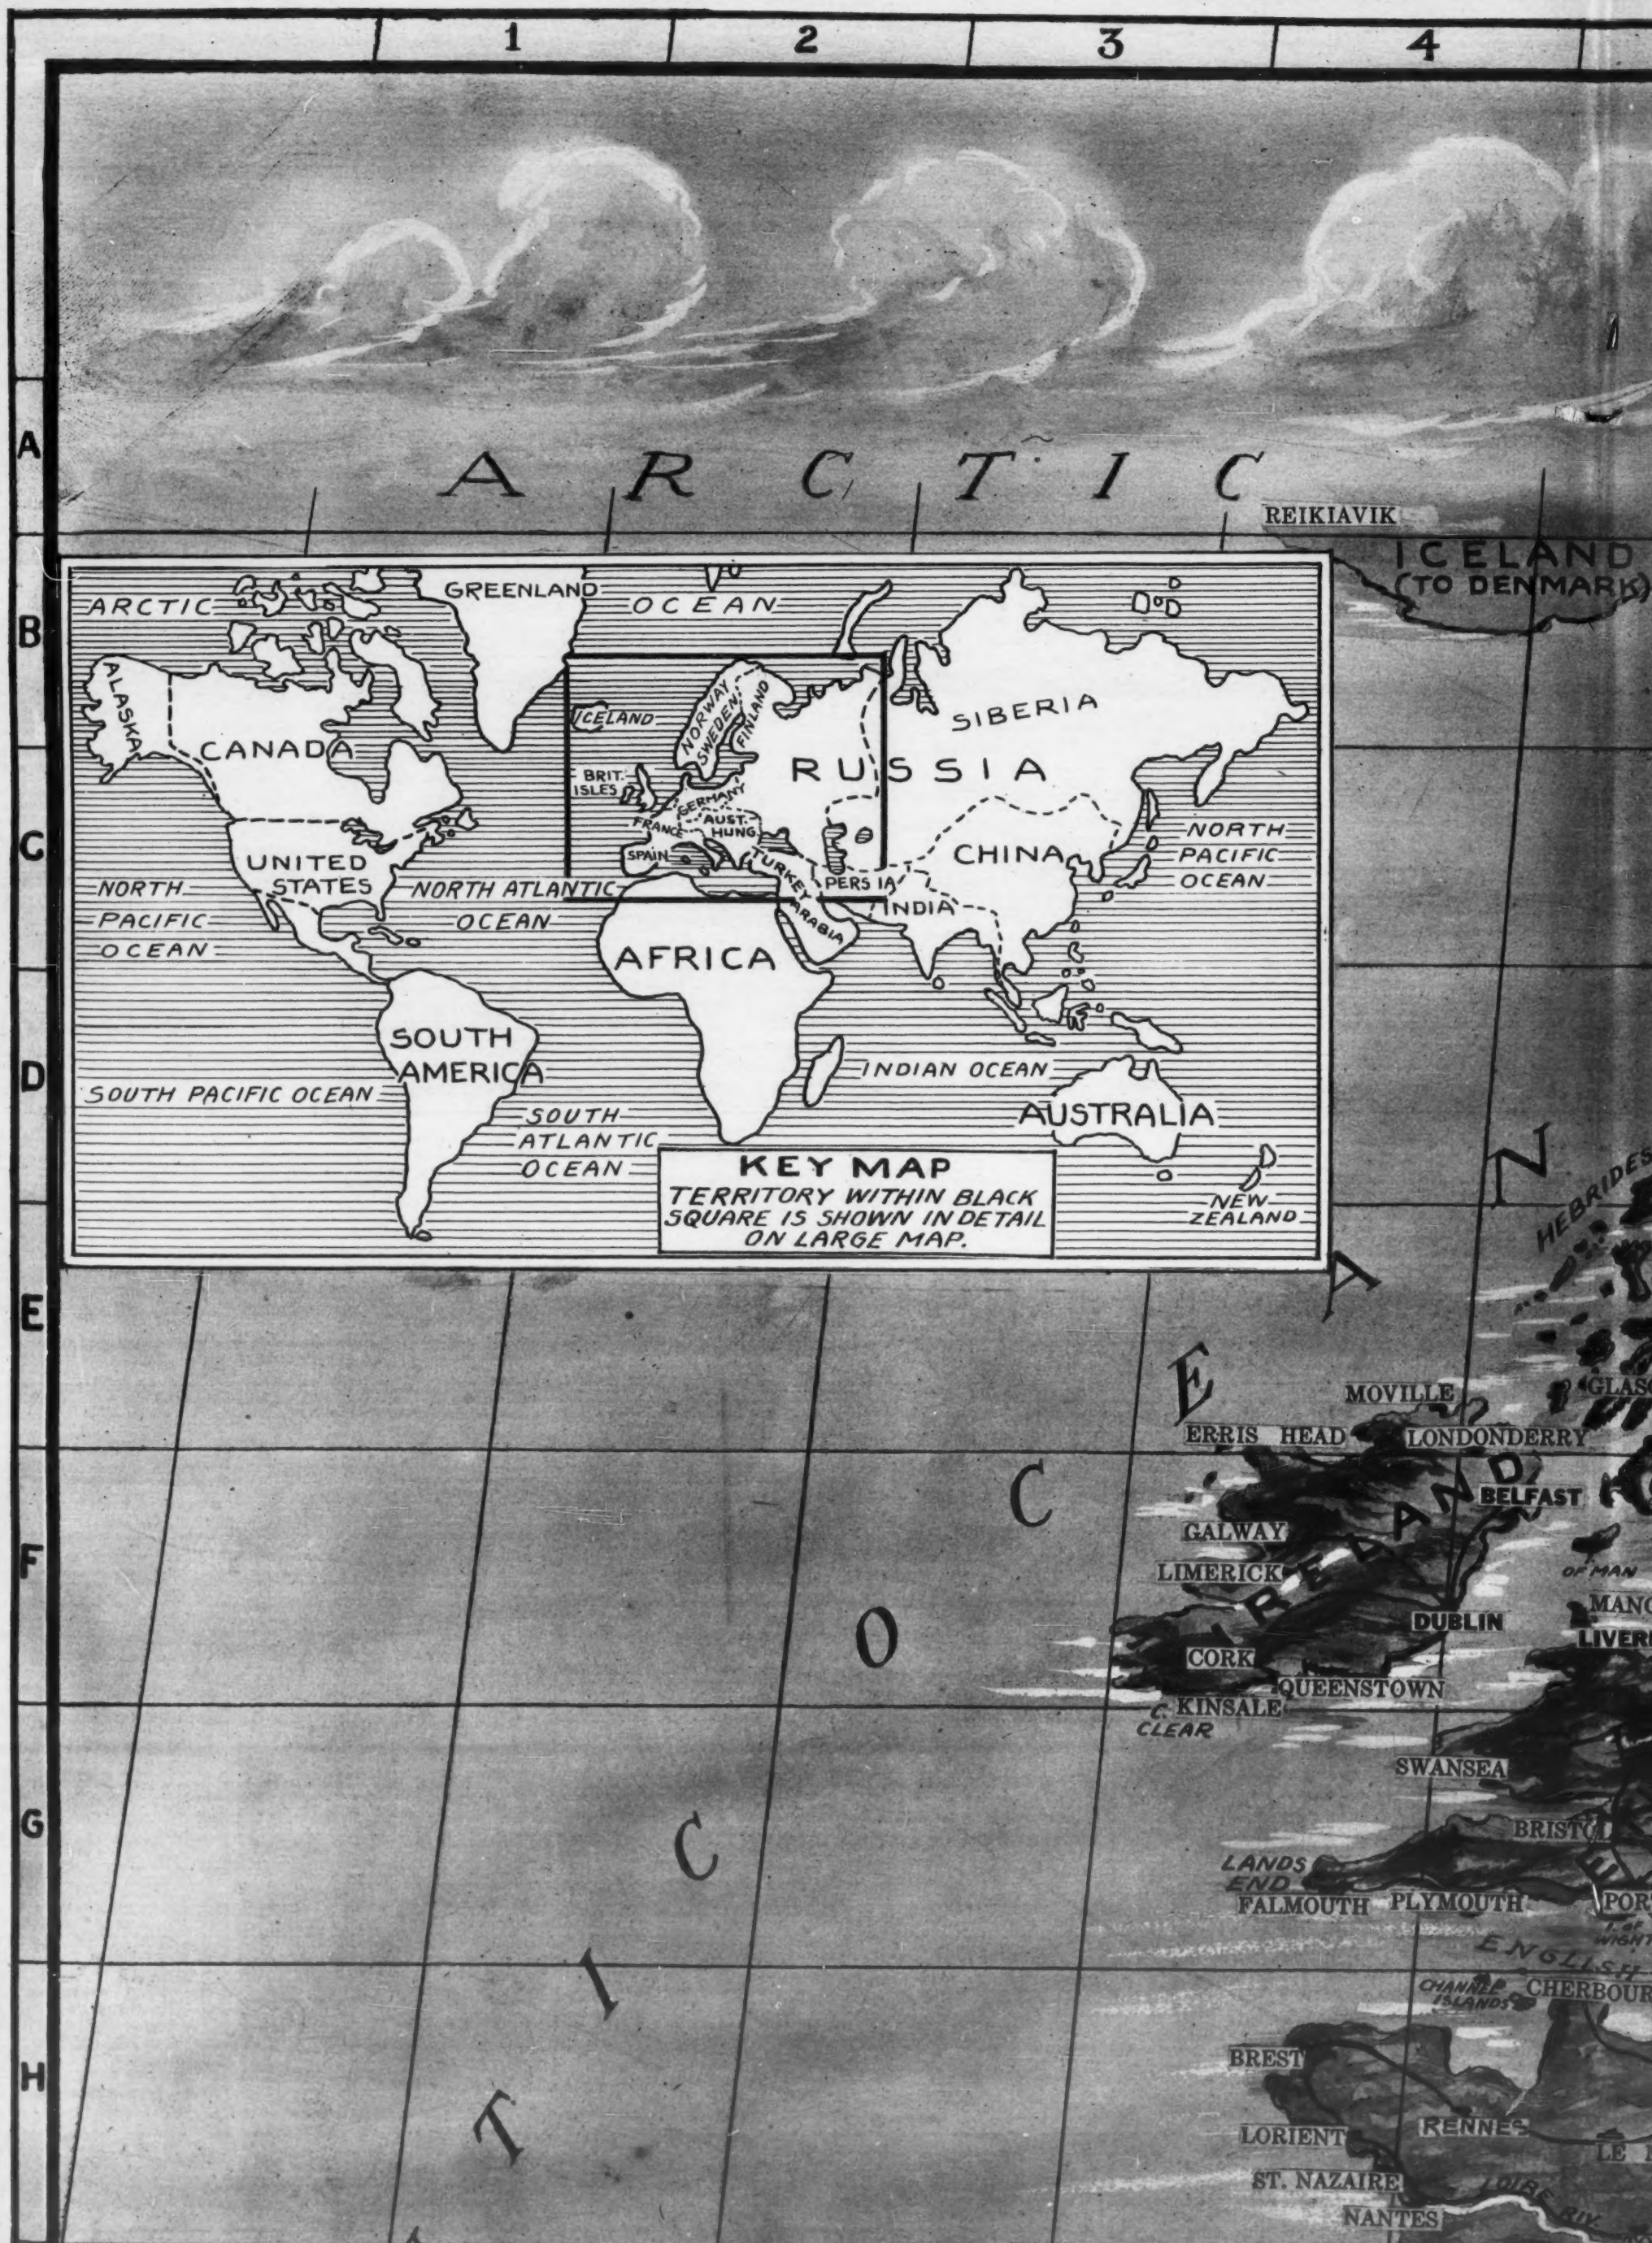

(© Brown Bros.)

(AT LEFT) THE ROCKS OF THE LORELEI ARE LOCATED AT THE WINDING OF THE RHINE, 15 MILES SOUTH OF COBLENZ. HERE, ACCORDING TO TRADITION, THE BEAUTIFUL SIREN, THE LORELEI, SAT COMbing HER GOLDEN HAIR AND SINGING SONGS OF SUCH UNEARTHLY MELODY THAT THE ENTRANCED MARINER WHO LISTENED FORGOT AUGHT ELSE AND WAS LURED TO HIS DOOM IN THE DANGEROUS CURRENTS THAT SWIRL ABOUT THE ROCKS.

Devices Employed by the Germans to Retard Pursuit

A VERITABLE legion of cunningly devised traps testify to the ingenuity of the Germans when they were forced to retreat from the occupied regions of France and Belgium. Time was of great value to them, both in preparing their rear guard defenses and in slowing up the rapidity of the allied pursuit. The accompanying pictures show some of these contrivances. Dummy tanks looked formidable to Entente aviators flying overhead. Tank pits seemed innocent enough until the unwary tank operator found himself entrapped. Observation posts were so camouflaged that they escaped attention.

(ABOVE) Lille is the most important city of Northern France. It was captured by the Germans in their first invasion of 1914 and held by them until Oct. 18, 1918, when it was recaptured by British troops. The rule of the invaders had been brutal and the deportation of many thousands of young girls aroused the horror of the civilized world. The rejoicing of the inhabitants when the city was delivered from the German yoke was beyond description. The picture above shows the British troops marching through the great square during the official reception tendered them Oct. 28.

ON THE NIGHT OF NOV. 11, 1918, THE SQUARE IN FRONT OF THE GOVERNMENT BUILDING AT OTTAWA, CANADA, WAS THRONGED WITH JUBILANT DEMONSTRATORS.

Framing of Armistice Terms by Inter-Allied Conference at Versailles

H. Bliss, next but one, Premier Venizelos, and the Serbian Minister Vesnich. At the right: Vice Admiral Wemyss, General Sir Henry Wilson, Field Marshal Haig, General Sackville West, Andrew Bonar Law, British Premier Lloyd George, French Premier Clemenceau, and French Foreign Minister Stephen Pichon.

Perhaps no gathering of plenipotentiaries for a century past has been fraught with such importance as that of the Inter-Allied Conference at Versailles, which drew up the terms of the armistices to be imposed on Germany and Austria. Their task was the more arduous because these armistices were designed not to be merely temporary truces, but to make the resumption of war by the Central Powers impossible. The terms drawn up by the conference accomplished this end. The Austrian armistice went into effect on Nov. 4 and the German armistice was signed on Nov. 11, 1918. The peace negotiations will begin shortly.

German Armistice Envoys at French Headquarters

THE ARMISTICE CONFERENCE.

These are the first pictures to be received in this country showing incidents that attended the momentous gathering of allied and German representatives to discuss the terms of armistice that had been framed by the Interallied Conference at Versailles. The cars bearing the German delegates bore a white flag and left the headquarters of the German High Command on Nov. 7 at 5 P. M. They reached the French advanced post at 9:30 P. M. and spent the night at the Castle of Francport. The next morning they were conducted to the private car that served as Marshal Foch's headquarters at Rethondes. In the picture below is shown the first meeting. The allied representatives are (1) Marshal Foch, (2) British Admiral Wemyss, (3) an American delegate, probably General Rhodes, (4) French General Maxime Weygand. The German delegates are (5) Mathias Erzberger, (6) General von Guendell, (7) General von Winterfeld, (8) Count von Oberndorff. After the formal greetings were over, Marshal Foch read the terms of armistice in a loud, clear voice, dwelling on every word. Conferences followed, and the armistice was signed Nov. 11.

RIALTO

"Temple of the Motion Picture"
TIMES SQUARE

Both Theatres under the Direction of S. L. ROTHAPFEL

Thousands follow these signs for better motion pictures

BRILLIANT Broadway with all its flashing lights carries no sign better known to more people than the signs of The Rivoli and The Rialto.

They mark the homes of better motion pictures—national institutions to which all America gravitates when seeking the certainty of worth-while entertainment.

They are the signs of America's most luxurious motion picture theatres—the theatres where the artistic development of the modern photo-play is to be seen in all its glory of fine plays, great artists and superb mounting and supreme stagecraft. The theatres where the best in music is interpreted by symphony orchestras, noted instrumental and vocal soloists, under the direction of leaders of world repute.

The Rivoli and The Rialto are regular habits with thousands of New Yorkers—a rendezvous not to be missed by the visitor.

You know the signs of The Rivoli and The Rialto—the signs of "foremost stars, in clean motion pictures, superbly directed"—the better pictures of Paramount and Arctcraft. And if you come to The Rivoli and The Rialto you know that every week is the week to come to these theatres if you are looking for the best in entertainment, designed to appeal to your kind of people.

Paramount and Arctcraft Motion Pictures

Come to The Rivoli and The Rialto just once—and we will see you often after that.
